

your club

- ☐ might arrange for an overseas student to address your meetings
- ☐ use CIDA Speakers' Bureau; names of possible speakers in your area are available
- ☐ show international development films at your meetings
- ☐ plan a special club project in support of development; for example, adopt a child or a family, provide scholarships for overseas students your city

- ☐ can welcome overseas visitors and students; offer every assistance during their stay in your community
- ☐ organize an International House in your community and visit it often
- ☐ twin with a community in a developing nation

These are just a few of the things YOU can do in the cause of international peace and prosperity. Your personal project, large or small, is important.

For further information, contact:
Director of Information,
Canadian International Development Agency,
Ottawa 4, Ontario.

©
Information Canada
Ottawa, 1971

Government Publication

U/F Canada Canadian international development agency

what can you do to help developing countries?

CA1
EAB1
-2003

3 1761 11551883 9

A Checklist of the things YOU can do to assist...

Every Canadian can play an important role in the difficult and complex task of international development... by becoming better informed about the developing countries... by actively participating in projects at home... by supporting private and government development programs... by serving abroad.

On the following pages, a brief checklist of the ways in which you, your school, your club, your business, your community might assist.

Join in... for a Better World

you can become better informed about the developing countries by:

- ☐ "adopting" a developing nation; learning all you can about it
- ☐ inviting a student to your home
- ☐ subscribing to a newspaper or magazine from a developing nation
- ☐ subscribing to "International Development" newspaper; it's free from CIDA can participate in development by:

- ☐ sponsoring a child through World Vision of Canada, CARE, the Foster Parents' Plan, Canadian Save the Children Fund, Save a Family Plan, or others
- ☐ buying Christmas cards and calendars from UNICEF and other development agencies
- ☐ supporting your church missionary society
- ☐ supporting emergency appeals for international assistance
- ☐ walking in the "Miles for Millions"
- ☐ vacationing in a developing country
- ☐ helping in fund-raising campaigns for voluntary agencies
- ☐ telling your member of Parliament how you feel about development programs your school can become better informed and also participate by:

- ☐ studying a developing nation as a special school project
- ☐ persuading your school to "twin" with one overseas
- ☐ getting a pen pal from an overseas country
- ☐ sending books to the Overseas Book Centre your business can become better informed by:

- ☐ subscribing to "Foreign Trade", available from the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce, Ottawa
- ☐ investigating foreign markets and the purchase of goods from developing countries and participate by:

- ☐ investing in a developing country
- ☐ donating used tools and machinery
- ☐ tendering on CIDA projects in a developing country; ask for CIDA's "Purchasing Procedures" pamphlet